Aim and Objectives of the NI Curriculum

Aim

The Northern Ireland Curriculum aims to empower young people to achieve their potential and to make informed and responsible choices and decisions throughout life.

Curriculum Objectives

The Northern Ireland Curriculum should provide learning opportunities for each young person to develop as:

1. An individual
2. A contributor to society; and
3. A contributor to the economy and the environment

Work in this unit 'In the White House' provides opportunities for pupils to :

As an individual

- Be aware of their creative potential (personal understanding)
- Respect and cooperate with others (mutual understanding)
- Be reliable and committed to tasks (moral character)

As a contributor to society

- Recognise the interdependence of people (citizenship)
- Negotiate and compromise (citizenship)
- Recognise the richness and diversity of cultural influences in contemporary society (cultural understanding)

LEARNING EXPERIENCES

- Challenging and engaging
- Relevant and enjoyable
- Linked to other curriculum areas
- Media rich
- Skills integrated
- Active and hands on
- Varied to suit learning styles
- On-going reflection

BACKGROUND NOTES

Great Scots-Irish Americans

The links between the island of Ireland and the United States of America are well recognised. What has not been so well recognised is the strength of the links between those of Ulster-Scots heritage and America. Much of this is due to the almost complete assimilation of the Ulster-Scots emigrants into early American society. Yet they were influential in many aspects of American life and today some 4.3 million Americans acknowledge themselves as of Scots-Irish origin* while researchers estimate that the actual figure is probably around 27 million.

The Scots had come to Ulster to better themselves economically, and to gain comparative freedom of worship which existed in Ulster as opposed to 17th century Scotland. However, religious restrictions were imposed in Ireland in 1703, so that once again they faced persecution as they had in Scotland in the previous century. A large number of Scots had arrived in Ulster in the 1690's and had taken up either 21 year or 31 year leases. These had been offered at attractive rates by the landlords to encourage improvements on their estates. When these original leases expired, the landlords either raised the rents exorbitantly (rent racking), or put the leases up for auction, causing many to move off the land and begin to think about moving on westwards to America. Nearly 1700 leases for 21 years terminated in 1717 and it is not surprising therefore that in that same year, more than 5000 Ulstermen left for America. Five great periods of migration to the American Colonies followed - in 1717/8; 1725-29; 1740/1; 1754/5; and 1771-75. In the period 1714-1720 alone, some 55 ships full of immigrants sailed from Ireland to ports in New England and between 1717 and 1776, over 200,000 Ulster-Scots made the journey. By the time of the first census of the United States, in 1790, the Scots-Irish were the second largest nationality group (the English were the largest).

The Scots - Irish were among the first 'Americans' peopling the frontier. Land was cheap and there was lots of it! In the 1730's and 1760's, for example, South Carolina offered land, tools and seeds to immigrants. The Scots-Irish began to head further west into western Pennsylvania and Virginia. Moving, being mobile and following new opportunities as they opened up became a way of life for the Scots-Irish. The Great Wagon Road led them on to search for even cheaper land in the Carolinas —mainly in the Piedmont district. About 1730 the Scots-Irish began to pour into the Shenandoah Valley. "Governor Gooch was then dispensing the Valley lands so freely and indiscriminately that one Jacob Stover, it is said, secured many acres by giving his cattle human names as settlers; and a young woman, by dressing in various disguises of masculine attire, obtained several large farms." ** Small farms, however, were the rule. The first Scots-Irish settled along the Opequon River; and their very oldest churches, the Tuscarora Meeting-house near Martinsburg (<http://mal.net/EarlyPresbyterians/prescongva.htm>) and the Opequon Church near Winchester (<http://opequonchurch.tripod.com/id4.html>), are still standing.

TEACHING SEQUENCE

Great Scots-Irish Americans

The materials in this unit of work are designed to be used flexibly and appropriately for a range of abilities.

- INDEPENDENT LEARNERS

For some pupils it will only be necessary to use page 36 where the pupils are given the task of project work researching a famous Scots-Irish American. A number of such characters are suggested as possible topics but the student is given a free choice of research.

Work could culminate in the Balloon Debate on page 37.

- PUPILS NEEDING SOME SUPPORT

For those pupils who need some more structure, guidance and support the section 'Practising Your Research Skills' begins on page 4. It offers a series of cloze passages on 8 famous Scots-Irish Americans. For each there is also an extension activity suggested.

These cloze passages can be answered using the materials beginning on page 14 if pupils do not have easy access to the Internet or if time is limited.

Again work could culminate in the Balloon Debate on page 37.

- GUIDED/TEACHER-LED APPROACH

The materials beginning on page 14: Famous Scots-Irish offer short biographies of 8 famous Scots-Irish Americans. This could be used to support and encourage pupils towards a simplified project or a Balloon Debate.

Below are 9 categories. You have also been given the names of some famous Scots-Irish. Some of them you will know or have heard of, some may be new to you. You may need to use a reference book or a search engine on the internet to find out who they were and what they did if you do not already know.

Match up the person to the category for which they are known.
